

Instead of increasing the allowable for a business to call a former customer, the time should be shortened to 30 days or less. Why would a business think repeated calls, months after an account was closed, would produce anything other than an annoyed former customer? I chose to be on the Do Not Call List because I do not want to be called by ANY business or solicitor EVER, unless I have an active account with that business.